Marlieke Kieboom Kennisland

Marlieke Kieboom works as an advisor at Kennisland, an independent think tank on societal renewal in the fields of education, governance, cultural heritage and copyright. Kennisland is based in Amsterdam.

Marlieke holds a Master of Science in Anthropology and has obtained a second Masters degree in 'Conflict & Governance' in Canada. She has worked in Asia and Central and South America where she specialized in international issues regarding active citizenship, social change and community building. After completing her studies, she worked for Utrecht University, the Institute of Social Studies (Erasmus University), the development organization Hivos and the Dutch Organization for Scientific Research (NWO). At NWO she contributed to the design of the Knowledge and Innovation Agenda for the Top-sector Creative Industries.

At Kennisland Marlieke works specifically on innovating between governance and civic driven processes. She is involved as a researcher in an FP7 project called "Emergence by Design".
